

Endaless

By: Qur' nasia Jones

VPresident:

When I was the Vice. Yes, there were problems beforehand but now I wouldn't have imagined this.

Media:

Mr. President how does it feel to now be a part of the history legacy

Mr. President:

Well, it's quite wonderful. With everything going on in the economy I'm glad to be here to change this country for the better. Thank you.

-Mr. President walks off stand-

Media

Mr. President!

Sir a few More Questions!

Excuse me sir a few more!

Mr. President:

Well, that went better than expected

Secretary:

It sure did! Heeres the script for your next meeting

-Mr. President garbs paper and begins reading-

-Vice president walks by-

-Mr. President look at vice-

Mr. President:

Vice President, Louis, are you doing alright?

Vice President:

No I'm not Josiah if anything I'm really stressing out right now I mean everything is happening so fast that I can't get a moment to myself. You would think as the vice president I would just be the right-hand woman but no they have me doing work. -Soffs- I mean did they really have other vice presidents doing this?

Secretary:

-Looks to side while holding papers and gives cough-

-Vice president looks at her-

Vice President:

I'm only joking. I mean damn. Can anyone in this office take a joke!

-Vice President walks off to media stand-

-Secretary looks in direction-

Secretary:

I can't believe Shes the vice president. Could she have some self-control for a moment. As the vice president you'd think she'd be better off with my role instead.

-Secretary looks up to see the President gone-

Secretary:

Mr. President? Mr. President

-Secretary walks off-

Media:

Ms. Vice President what roles will you take working into the White House?

Ms. Louis:

Well as of right now I'm still getting accustomed to the fast pace, but I assure you we will be looking into ways to get WICC back and grocery prices down.

Media:

Wouldn't taxpayers be using their money for WICC wasn't that the whole reason why it was disconnected? And what about gas prices?

Ms. Louis:

Sir there are 306 million residents in the U.S if not more. I mean isn't that the reason we all pay taxes to help to those who don't have. And by the way we are still working on-

Media:

Madam Vice I think we can all agree on bringing grocery prices down, but WICC doesn't make true sense. I mean that would be OUR tax money not yours. There's so much more you could be doing to help the people

-Media stands start agreeing and disagreeing-

Scene changes to general and President watching previous scene

General:

Shes getting cooked out there.

Mr. President:

Almost brought the C word out to the whole world. Couldn't make promises what would happen to the U.S if she did.

-General laughs-

General:

Mr. President I'm sure she'll be alright considering how much Shes been running around here going on about what we can do. It's literally been 5 hours since the both of you arrived.

Mr. President:

Louis just wants better for the country. That why Shes Vice.

General:

And not president! God Bless America if she were to become one.

Scene changes to windowed hallway

-Vice President is walking down the hall to general-

-Vice President opens door-

Vice President:

General why am I in charge of helping charity this week? I thought I had to travel to New York for the Act of Civil Bill?

General:

It'll be nice if you knocked

-Vice President crosses her arms-

General:

I thought you liked helping those in need or at least showing the world that you care.

-Vice president throws arms down-

Vice. President:

I do care, but it's the simple fact of this Bill its important, it's important to this country.

General:

So let the President handle it.

Vice President:

What.

General:

You heard me. Let the President handle it. He got the bill through congress so let him show his face.

Vice President:

I'm the one who stayed up for that bill, I'm the one who wr-

General:

Listen Madam Vice President Louis. You are not the president, so don't act like you are.

You know the difference between you two. The president has the right to show his compassion and his work for his country, but you? Oh, you can go about your day and laugh to the bank. If you really cared for this country, you'd show your face in the camera and shut the hell up.

-Vice President looks shocked-

General:

Do yourself a favor, get out and next time knock on my door about what the media says about you so I can lie to your face and tell you how much of a good Vice President you are. For peats sake Louis we've only been here for a couple of hours. Take a got dam break.

-Vice President exits room-

-General sighs-

General-

Been here for 27 years girl, you do not want to overwork yourself on the first day. Worse thing about it you haven't seen nothing yet.

-Vice president walks down hallway -

-outside the window a airplane explodes and falls from the sky-

VPres: What the

-Vice moves hands over her head-

Scene changes to inside the oval office

Mr. President:

First day in and there's already planes falling.

Secretary:

Mr. President don't blame yourself, accidents can happen at any time, and we still don't know all the information yet

Mr. President:

I'm not blaming myself

-Vice President walks in-

Vice President:

I just seen a plane falling from the sky, what is going on! And why aren't you at your desk shouldn't you be answering calls?

-Secretary looks at the Vice President-

-General walks in with two guards-

Mr. President, we must take you into safety we have no clue what this is yet.

Mr. President:

What are you talking about its a plane that fell, we should wait here until we know about the details then figure out what's next.

General:

No sir. It's for your safety, empowering!

-Vice President turns-

General:

You too. Now let's go

Secretary:

So where am I supposed to go?

General:

Go back to doing your job.

-General walks out VP and P-

Secretary: What! I need to always stay by the president.

-General turns around-

General:

Do you know what you can be doing. You can go back and sit where you need to be taking calls so we can know what is going on right in front of our doors.

Scene changes to President and Vice president standing in a room.

-Vice president sighs-

Vice President:

On the first day, I was so worried about the bill tomorrow that I couldn't even realize a plane falling from the sky.

-Mr. President looks at general-

Mr. President:

Any updates on what is happening. What made this plane be the reason why we're sitting down here just waiting for something to happen.

Vice President:

Insensitive much.

General:

As of right now the only information I have is to keep you two protected. Any other information must be withheld from you Mr. President.

-Mr. President sits down and looks away-

-Guard walks in-

Guard:

General you are all free to resume

-Scene changes to Media scene-

Vice President:

Don't we have someone on guard for the media why is it that I have to go up there and talk to them. All they do is cut me off with more questions?

General:

Louis, the President will handle it, as of right now you need to go and give yourself a break, I've told you this earlier have I not.

-Vice President sighs-

General:

Think about this as the calm before the storm. Considering what has happened. Ignore that. You don't need any more stress as of right now.

Vice President:

What happened?

-General looks around for an escape-

General:

Ah Mrs. Brook can you please take Madam Vice President to the movie room. -whispers-
And if you could find some rosae please find it fast and quickly. Ah Ha thank you quickly

Vice President:

But what if they call me up there

General:

We'll take care of it.

-The General waves his hand towards the VP-

General:

I thought I would have never gotten rid of her

Mr. President:

What were you talking about earlier

General:

Don't worry about that. Focus on what you're going to say when you go up there. It's going to be a lot of questions. Be prepared

-General lightly taps President's back-

Mr. President:

I know I know, I've got this. I'm the president after all.

Media:

Mr. President was this an attack on the White House?

Mr. President:

As far as we are concern it was not.

Media:

But Mr. President it was said that you had to be taken to safety.

Mr. President:

Yes, but also received all clear so no, there was no attack.

Media:

Mr. president what will you do to stop these plane issues going forward.

Mr. President:

I believe the Airline will need to figure out what is happening to their planes, if anything we are also here to make sure this does not happen again.

Media:

Mr. President you truly did not answer my question.

Mr. President:

I can assure you that I truly did

Media:

Is that attitude

Mr. President:

No further questions

Media:

But isn't the president being a little insensitive!

What about the casualties on the ground!

Hey! Mr. President do you know what the cause of the Plane crash was!

Scene changes to the president exiting off stage

Mr. President:

Was that what you were talking about earlier. It's a mess out there.

General:

I was telling you. That's why I sent the Vice President to rest, she probably could not handle that pressure. Giving the fact that she would've kept me in my office talking about it all night. I don't know who could be worse the media or her.

-President laughs-

Mr. President:

Well, when all this is done, please get her into training for the media.

General:

Will do sir.

Scene changes to nighttime

-The general knocks on the VP door-

General:

May I come in

-The VP walks up to door and stares out-

Vice President:

Mr. General what can I help you with?

General:

No need for formality. I need to speak with you

Vice President:

About what? To berate me about my first day. You know I have a couple words to say to you too about how you speak towards me.

General:

No. It's about the plane crash.

-The VP stops for a second.

Vice President:

What about the crash?

General:

Can I come in?

-VP steps aside-

General:

I didn't know how to tell you about this while the president was around.

-Vice president starts taking off jewelry -

Vice President:

Tell me about?

-General sighs-

General:

His parents were on that plane.

Vice President:

I know, there were many parents on that plane some even children.

General:

God you are dense, and you say the president is insensitive.

Vice President:

Then what are we talking about here. Look at the causalities on that plane and you're worried about a couple of parents what about the several families on the plane what about everyone on that plane. What makes a couple of parents so special.

General:

It was the Presidents parents. His parents died today

-VP looks back to the general-

Vice President:

Is he alright? I should go check on him.

-VP walks to the door, general steps in front to stop her-

General:

I can't allow you to do that. I wanted you to know because we don't need you to run the country.

VP:

Are you insane! Are you only saying that to tell me that I can't run a country! Get out of my way.

General:

I telling you thins because he doesn't know.

VP:

What.

General:

He does not know. And he will not know as long as he runs this country right.

--Louis takes a step back-

VP:

What. What do you mean he doesn't know his parents are dead. What is wrong with you.

General:

His job as of right now is to run this country. This country that we both lay our feet on, if we have a shrived low-down, grieving President. We. Are. Done. We can kiss our own assess goodbye but for right now you keep your mouth shut about it.

VP:

So why would you tell me this.

General:

So you can learn something about your job. You are the closet to the president, so I'm telling you keep him busy so he can forget about them. I'm teaching you something and you better take notes. You want to leave your job in the first week then fine. It doesn't bother me. I've seen a handful of presidents come and go with no issues to me but if you want to keep your job and stand on your own two feet, better keep your mouth quiet about this.

-VP stares into Generals eyes-

General:

Have a wonderful rest of the night, and if I figure out, you're the one who brought this to him, well just know you'll be watched more that you can say the word the.

-Louis watches general leave the room, she moves to her bed and sits down-

MORNING TIME

-OFFICAL GENERALS AND GUARDS ARE IN A MEETING-

Official general:

And considering the plane crash that happened yesterday we need to consider the veterans on board.

-Official General takes off his hat and sits down-

Mr. President:

Thank you Official

-VP walks in -

The whole room turns

VP:

I wanted to stop by to give these files to the president. It's about the Bill of Civil happening today in New York.

-VP hands papers but general is looking over-

Mr. President:

Thank you I'll look into this after the meeting.

-VP Leaves-

Scene changes to hallway

Secretary:

Hey VP is everything going alright?

VP:

Oh hey, yea yea everything is fine. I just have a light headache and with everything that happened yesterday I've been quite busy.

Secretary:

We all have those days. You do know you're not the president so it's okay to relax and take a break sometimes.

VP:

You know that's the opposite of what people say about homeless people, yet no one can fight for them.

-Secretary looks away-

Secretary:

I didn't know they allowed people like you into the white house, I guess it's nice to finally see someone who cares about the people. But you also have to understand that you're only one person, and we as people also need that one person.

VP:

Ellie don't go treating me like the president. It's weird hearing that from you.

Secretary:

If you say so

-VP Louis turns away, Ellie taps her shoulder-

Secretary:

by the way do you know when the President gets out the meeting? I'd like to ask to go with him to the Civil of Bill signing.

-VP looks side to side-

VP:

Well, when I went in there it seemed like he didn't know about the meeting. I guess I'll have to be the one to tell him everything, but then again that isn't my job.

-VP turns to leave-

Secretary:

Seems like everyone is having a bad day.

Scene changes to Private plane

-Josiah waves his hands to the media-

Media:

And just like that Josiah is off to go sign the Bill of Civil.

Scene changes to Louis, she is standing letting the chair uphold her

Louis:

I should be there with him too. It's practically my bill.

General:

But you do know that it would be more comforting to the country when they see his face.

-VP stares at the general before standing completely up-

Louis:

So, what I'm supposed to be okay with watching him take full credit on a bill that I wrote.

-Louis sighs-

Louis moves to leave

Louis:

Well, I guess that's what I signed up for, to be America's smile and wave.

Louis looks at Paul General Before leaving

I have to go Paul, probably file another bill that the president would take credit for instead of debit.

Louis leaves stage

Scene set to Secretary and VP at front wing

Secretary:

I don't know Louis, I think you're talking things too seriously

VP:

I guess I can be uptight

Secretary:

Take it as a compliment, but seriously you've been doing a great job here.

VP:

Even though I've been told to act like a statue next to the president

Ellie sits in silence

VP:

Don't take me too seriously

Louis puts drink down and stands next to window

VP:

I guess cooling down helped. But I still feel like I can do more. I'm the Vice President for sake. Aren't I supposed to help shape this nation.

Ellie smiles at Louis

Secretary:

Hey, it's going to take some time, but you will fit into the nation you'll create with the President, I've got hope in him so that gives me hope in you.

Louis turns to Ellie

VP:

I'll lie to you and say that's one of the most heartwarming words I've heard from you. I don't know if you treat me like this because you see me as a friend or if you're only doing this because of the President.

Secretary:

Maybe its for Josiah. But this is also my job. I have to take my work seriously. And given you're my coworker, we should at least be on a good term, together.

VP:

We do have the next 4 years, so I guess.

Scene Ends

Media:

And just like that the President takes off after signing the Bill of Civil. Netizens have these words to say.

Netizens 1:

I believe this bill will help with the racism happening in this country.

Netizen 2:

Does the president thinks were complete fools. How can this Bill help lower prices int he grocery for EVERYONE. I mean we All need food, and we need to be able to buy the food. I believe this Bill is a distraction to the real issue happening in our economy.

Media:

The views on this new bill is quite taking, some agree some oppose. What's next for the White House. Back to you.

Scene changes to General and the President in the oval

General Courtney:

Do you see how ungrateful some of these people are. I mean damn how many problems do they want solved in a day.

President Josiah:

Well we should consider some of the negative views as well to improve on our next bill.

General Courtney:

Next Bill? Next Bill! Mr. President are you out of your mind. You're talking like Louis is your President. That is not our case. Do what YOU want and don't let the Viccee Presidentt. Get In. Your. Head.

President Josiah:

I don't believe shes getting in my head. I believe she has a vision for the nation, and I take that seriously. She truly wants the best.

General Courtney:

No. You have the best. So, make the most out of it. If you keep going on with these bills, bills, bills, you'd be paintin- no you'd be overworked just like her.

General holds his head

General Courtney:

I- You have to stand in your own reign. You know what we're having dinner tonight with the Ciphers. We can talk about changes happening within the House, we can always create a bill for the people.

President Josiah:

A dinner in six hours. Don't mind if I partake.

General Courtney:

Of course you're going to partake you're the president.

Scene Ends

Scene starts at Dinner

Conversations and Eating

Mr. Cipher:

I gotta say Josiah, this has to be the best rotisserie chicken I've tasted.

Both the President and Cipher laugh

Mr.P

Thank you Cipher.

Mr. Cipher:

By the way, Mr. President how is the office treating you?

Mr.P

Its only been a couple of days but it is going well. Simple work, the Media.

Mrs. Cipher coughs

Mr.P:

But overall I believe this will be a wonderful 4 years.

Mr. Cipher:

A toast to that.

Scene moves to VP

VP:

General why are we having this dinner. It wasn't planned and I had civil work to finish.

General:

Quit your winning and enjoy the mash potatoes.

VP:

Please.

VP wipes mouth and throws napkin down.

VP:

If you'd excuse me, I have personal work to attend to.

VP gets up and exits scene

General:

She is a handful.

General continues to eat.

Scene moves to VP in hallway

VP looks at the sky

VP:

If this is what Paul meant by there's more issues, how do I create something to make everything better

President:

Well, isn't that why we're here

VP turns to look at him

VP

There goes our smooth week.

Josiah:

Did you think it would be smooth there's still turbulence in the sky.

VP:

How was the media today? Did they tear you up?

Josiah:

How was it eating by the General?

VP:

Okay I get it no talking about work when it isn't needed. I just thought about how hectic today was and I felt so. Unprepared.

Josiah:

Well, you can't spell Unprepared without prepared. We did our best today, and we'll do even better tomorrow. But we aren't machines. Sometimes everything that is throw on us can be overworking and bring down that once empowering spirit. But it can always comeback.

Louis:

With a little bit of crying in therapy

Josiah:

And hanging out with people close to you, having fun, and finding new hobbies to get into

Louis looks at Josiah

Louis:

What are you my father now

President:

Nope I'm just being the President

VP holds fake microphone up to Josiah

Louis:

Well Mr. President what are your plans for the next week coming up?

Josiah leans down to the microphone

Mr.President:

Well we'll just have to see when we get there

The two laugh

The scene moves to the dinner door Where the General and Mr.Cipher are watching the two arms crossed

Mr. Cipher:

Its clear that she hasn't said anything about the incident

General:

Of course not, she wants to keep her job. I'm more worried about the press.

Mr. Cipher:

You removed that information from every media source, right?

General:

Sure Did, but you know how the media is. No matter how deep you hide information there a small surface kept above to expose everything.

Mr. Cipher:

Good thing we're not regular people, at least we are the percent that knows

General:

As long as that workaholic is still here, He won't find out a damn thing.

Media:

Vice President Where were you during the crash

Vice President:

I was in safety alongside the President

Media:

And now how are you going to help with the current situation

Vice President:

Knowing how the plane crashed into a neighborhood we are going to make sure they get compensation. No further questions

Media

What about the people on the plane.

How will you deal with the social fear of planes

Vice President! Vice President!

The vice president walks off towards the main room

VP:

Thank God it wasn't too bad out there.

The VP looks into the room seeing both the General and Cipher

VP:

Hello, General, Cipher. What's going on?

Cipher:

Walks off

General looks at VP

Louis:

I guess I was not apart of that conversation. What am I supposed to say to the media out there. Oh lets make planes safer by doing what we've been doing I mean what else do they want me to say that the-

General:

I'm going to have to cut you off there before you say anything that would. Make you lose your job

General points to Josiah walking towards them

VP:

perfect timing. Mr.President!

President Josiah:

Louis what's with the formality. If it's because of the media I assure you that you did your best to control the source, especially because of the previous plane crash.

Louis:

No Josiah I may stress myself out with work, but I have a personal life that stresses me out more

President:

Thats right, thank you for reminding me Louis, I should call my parents

General stands in position ready to arm

Louis looks away

General:

President, President. We need you in the oval as of right now there is an important meeting, I was just informing Louis.

Louis looks at the General before looking at Josiah

Louis: Right. And I was about to take my leave, because I have nothing to DO with that meeting.

Louis looks at the general before taking her leave.

Josiah: I should meet you there general

General:

Why not walk there together

President:

I have some..Business to attend to

Scene changes to Louis pacing down the hallway

Louis: What. The. Actual. FUCK

Josiah:

If I do say so myself

Louis looks up at Josiah

Louis:

Josiah! Arent you supposed to be at the meeting

Josiah:

Im the President I can be anywhere

Louis looks down the hallway, looking back at Josiah

Louis: So what are you doing here

Josiah:

Just admiring the atmosphere

Louis:

Hmm. Then are you going to that meeting?

Josiah: You're really interested in me going into That Meeting.

Louis:

I dont know. It sounded important.

Josiah side eyes Louis

Josiah:

Just as important as this job. Just as important as my life.

Louis:

What do you. What are you saying? You're not usually this. This way.

Josiah:

Vulnerable? If you think I'm being that way you're surly mistaken

Louis:

We'll I'm used to you being more. Stubble. More grounded.

Josiah stares at Louis

Josiah:

Does that mean I don't have a right to grief?

Louis:

No that's not what I'm saying. What?

Josiah:

I know Louis. I may be the President, but even I am a child who has learned about his parents' absence.

Louis looks down

Josiah:

I should get back to that meeting. I'll be in my office afterwards if you need me. Vice President.

Josiah walks off

Scene changes to oval office Mr. Cipher and General Courtney are in the room explaining idfk some important political ship

Josiah walks in

General:

Mr. President glad for you to join us

Josiah:

Mmh

Mr.Cipher:

Yes I was just explaining to the general Something political, ill find out what is later

Josiah:

If the two f you are having such a great chat, what is the reason for me being here?

General:

Well I need to explain 'this' with you

Josiah:

I don't want an explanation on 'that' what I need to know is why the plane situation was not explained to me properly.

Mr. Cipher Coughs

General:

I'm sorry Mr. President I don't think I understand what you mean

Josiah sits down before cover his face with his hands, looking back up at the general

Mr. President:

Courtney, as the general are you not supposed to explain anything and ANY INFORMATION about any situation brought to the White House.

General:

Yes sir but I do-

Mr.President:

Yet that information is excluded when my parents are involved.

The room moves to silence

Cipher moves to the president in a welcoming motion

Mr.Cipher:

We had planned to tell you but the time wasn't right

Cipher rest a hand on Josiah soulders, Josiah stands up taking a step back

Josiah:

And as the Genral, Courtney, You should be able to trust ME as the President to be able to handle that information and continue my job.

General:

I am protecting you from your emotions

Josiah:

Are they your emotions to protect or mine. Do you not believe doing something like this would tarnish the trust we have in each other. Or even worse tarnish this country. Who are you to hold this behind my back instead of telling me right there and then. I could have had a different outcome; I could grieve in silence. Instead, I learn about it from the one woman you try to hide form me.

The General moves shifts to an unsettling face expression

General:

You found out from Louis!

Josiah:

If thinking that she could look at me in the face the same after hiding a secret like that, you're even more insane for telling her.

The General walks out of the Oval

Josiah:

Tell me Cipher, did you know that Ellie had accidently told me after she overheard Courtney and Louis talking about in. In secret, in this. Here.

Mr. Cipher:

No sir, I didn't know about it until today. No one should receive news like that. I apologize on both the General and my end.

Josiah leave the scene

Scene changes to Louis and Ellie, Louis head down on her table as Ellie trys to comfort her

Ellie:

Is he mad? At the both of us

Louis:

I really don't want to talk about this right now. Is there any important documents that need to be reviewed?

Ellie surries around her table before shaking her head.

Ellie:

You completed documents was your way to escape distractions, there are anymore distractions around. Work is completed for today.

Louis pulls her head up looking at Ellie

Louis:

Thanks anyways. I should get back to doing something else

Ellie:

What else there isn't anything to do right now, best thing is to write something new

Louis looks up

Louis;

Yes! A new bill

Ellie:

I didn't mean that and please don't the last thing Jos- The President wants is to do business over a new bill.

Louis:

He won't be the same after this

Ellie:

I don't think anyone is

Scene ends

Louis walks in the hallway seeing the General

Louis: Hey Courtney

General looks directly into her eyes

General: Its General to you. And for your information I thought I made it clear not to tell THE President about his parents.

Louis looks shocked

Louis: I didn't I-

General: And you failed to keep that between Us. In this case do you know what this means. No, you do not lose your job, but you will be watched over 24/7. When you sleep, When you eat. Even when you're visiting family. I will make sure you know what you've done and how you will be configured.

Louis: I didn't tell him. He maybe overheard us talking.

General: Louis I don't believe a word your saying, and I will never believe it. Do your job correct and I'll do mine

General walks off leaving Louis holding her chest

Two security guards make her way towards Louis

SG 1: As long as you don't make trouble, we should bother you

Scene ends
