A BRIDE (27), a GROOM (27), and a PRIEST (70), face each other in a small wedding ceremony, under an old oak tree.

PRIEST

It is my privilege and pleasure to pronounce you husband and wife. You may kiss the bride.

The groom passionately kisses his one true love.

GROOM

(Forehead on forehead)
I love you so much.

BRIDE

I love you, too. I always have.

The priest gives the bride and groom a handshake.

PRIEST

Congratulations. Well done.
(Sigh of resignation)
Let's get this over with.

The bride bursts into uncontrollable crying. The groom comforts her as the trio turn to face the tree. The bride buries her head in the groom's chest, as he puts his arms around her.

GROOM

Sorry I couldn't give you a honeymoon.

The priest whispers prayers, kisses his 'Star of David'.
